Sixth foot a fake

Sneaker stuffed with animal paw, seaweed

By JOYCE YIP
for Metro Vancouver

The latest foot found on a B.C. beach is a hoax.

The RCMP said an investigation has been started to find the person responsible for what initially looked like a sixth severed foot in a shoe. As it turned out, the remains were not human, but a skeletonized animal paw inside a sock and packed with dried seaweed to fit inside a shoe, according to the B.C. Coroners Service.

consequences

» RCMP Insp. Brendan Fitz-Patrick said that if caught, the person or person's involved in the hoax will likely face public mischief charges and a possible cruelty to animals charge.

Insp. Brendan FitzPatrick said he is relieved there was not a human victim involved.

"Due to the nature of these incidents over the past year, many families with missing loved ones are closely watching and wondering if it is their loved one who has been found," he said. "The insensitivity shown to the families and the victims involved is unbelievable."

The animal paw was found in a black Adidas running shoe by a woman walking on Tyee Spit Wednesday morning. It made headlines around North America as investigators initially suspected it to be the sixth time over the past year that a human foot has washed ashore in B.C. Four of the previous appendages are right feet, one is a left foot, and all were found in sneakers.

Theories abound about where the feet come from, including that they may be linked to a plane crash that killed four people near Quadra Island.

Robertson to resign as MLA

Gregor Robertson will resign as New Democrat MLA for Vancouver-Fairview to focus on his campaign to become Vancouver's mayor, the Vision Vancouver candidate announced yesterday.

Robertson

"All of my energy must be focused on reaching out to all of the citizens of Vancouver, and gaining their input, insight, and support for my mayoral bid," said Robertson, in a statement yesterday, less than a week after winning the Vision Vancouver mayoral nomination.

Robertson's resignation takes effect July 15. It gives him just less than four weeks to close existing files and create an orderly transition.

On Sunday, Robertson defeated mayoral hopefuls Vision Coun. Raymond Louie and independent parks commissioner Al De Genova. Robertson won with 3,495 votes. Louie had 2,244 and De Genova 981.

CBC scouting for hockey theme

The search for a new Hockey Night In Canada theme song was launched by CBC Sports yesterday, two weeks after talks to renew its contract with the previous song's composer fell through.

Submissions will be accepted until Aug. 31 and two finalists will be revealed at the beginning of Hockey Night In Canada on Oct. 9.

Fans will vote for the winner, who will get $100,000, royalties and the honour of hearing their song before every CBC hockey game.

The original Hockey Theme composer, Vancouver pianist Dolores Claman, wrote the song in 1968. She has sold the rights to the song to CTV in perpetuity.

Offenders beyond super chronic

Some commit 30 crimes a day: VPD

By JEFF HODSON
Metro Vancouver

Perhaps taking a cue from the movie Spaceballs, Vancouver Police Chief Jim Chu introduced the phrase "ludicrous chronic offenders" yesterday to describe a breed of criminals who are light-years beyond their peers.

In Mel Brooks' 1987 space parody, the Spaceball One (a spaceship) was able achieve speeds that were so far beyond light speed that they were ridiculous, even ludicrous.

It's a term that Chu — who Wednesday called for longer jail sentences for chronic offenders, a so-called "30 strikes and you're out" rule — said fits a group of super chronic offenders roaming Vancouver streets despite rap sheets with hundreds of criminal convictions.

Eighty-seven per cent of chronic offenders receive sentences ranging from one day to six months.

The police department yesterday set out to paint a picture of three people who are so far beyond super chronic offenders that they fit into their own "ludicrous" category.

Const. Tim Fanning, a spokesman for the department, said ludicrous chronic offenders are drug addicts and often suffer mental disorders. Some, he said, commit more than 30 crimes a day in order to feed drug habits.

"This doesn't go on anywhere else in the world," Fanning said. "It's a public safety issue. These people need to go to jail to keep the public safe."

'Ludicrous chronic offenders'

Vincent Mark Barton, 39

Barton

» Barton has 128 criminal convictions that date back to 1988, including robbery, break-and-entry, and theft under $5,000.

Brian Nicholas Saunders, 50

Saunders

» Saunders' police file opened in 1975. He has 130 convictions, for robbery and theft. As he's gotten older, he's resorted to crimes like shoplifting.

William Edward Marshall, 46

Marshall

» Marshall has 148 convictions from as far back as 1979 for break and entry, theft and assault.

19-yr.-old shooting victim hospitalized

By KRISTEN THOMPSON
Metro Vancouver

Police in Chilliwack are on the hunt for two men and a white Jeep Cherokee seen leaving the scene of what appears to have been a gang-related shooting early yesterday.

Gunfire erupted around 3 a.m. at a home on Vedder Road.

RCMP Const. Lea-Anne Dunlop said a 19-year-old man, who was known to police, was shot several times. He was airlifted to hospital where he was listed in stable condition.

"The suspects … forced their way into the residence and shot the victim multiple times," Dunlop said.

"It is believed at this time that this was an unsuccessful targeted hit that is linked to gang activity and the drug trade."

She said police are trying to determine if the incident is linked to other Lower Mainland targeted shootings.

Two car thieves left on list

Eight of the province's Top 10 most wanted car thieves have been caught after the arrest of a 19-year-old man in Surrey.

The Impact Enforcement Team arrested Reuben Edward Wiener at a gas station on King George Highway after receiving an anonymous tip.

Two men who made the Top 10 list, Jason Daniel Marshall, 33, and Brent Joseph Smith, 38, are still at large.

Dragon boats set to race

20th year of event has 150 teams involved

By JEFF HODSON
Metro Vancouver

From a scant 12 teams in 1989, Vancouver's Dragon Boat Festival has grow to upwards of 150 teams and is the largest event of its kind outside of Hong Kong.

"It's really a team sport," said Anita Webster, spokeswoman for the festival, which celebrates its 20th anniversary this year. "There's no most valuable player, there's no superstars. You're as good as your ability to keep time and be part of a team."

> « The festival itself is just pure Vancouver. There's entertainment. There's music. There's food from around the world. There are multicultural events. »
> Anita Webster, spokeswoman

The sport's growing appeal — it is one of the fastest growing sports around — is because of its spirit of camaraderie and because it doesn't necessarily require a ton of athletic ability, Webster said.

"The festival itself is just pure Vancouver. There's entertainment. There's music. There's food from around the world. There are multicultural events."

The festival begins tonight when Taoist priests will hold an eye-dotting ceremony to awaken the dragon. As well, a group from the Squamish Nation will paddle around the course in traditional red-cedar canoes, spreading feathers and blessing the water.

The racing begins tomorrow on False Creek at 8 a.m. Races are held every 12 minutes until 4 p.m. Admission is free.

City impresses in Beijing visit

Grant Lachmuth shows off his Olympic pins at YVR yesterday.

The first wave of employees working at the British Columbia Canada pavilion in Beijing returned to Vancouver yesterday after spending two months showcasing our business, tourism and culture industries.

Representatives of the municipal, provincial and federal government, as well as students from Lower Mainland universities and colleges, will be at the pavilion throughout the Summer Games and into the early fall.

Grant Lachmuth, with the ministry of transportation, said the pavilion induced a sense of awe in tourists and homesickness in Canadian visitors.

"The first floor showcased (B.C.) imagery and materials based on the five Chinese elements," he said.

There was fur, metal, jade, First Nations art and a section of a tree that fell in Stanley Park during the 2006 windstorm.

"(Visitors) could see and touch and smell that giant cedar tree that was over 500 years old."

Beatrice Gill, with the ministry of economic development, said the second floor hosted business events and conferences to promote economic trade and tourism.

"A lot of deals were signed," she said. "A lot of good connections (were made)."

Native activists get Klein's support

Author wants to stop development in disputed lands

New York Times best-selling author Naomi Klein listens as Aboriginal activists speak at the Maritime Labour Centre yesterday.

B.C.'s aboriginals should have the right to activism without fear of jail, best-selling Canadian writer Naomi Klein told a Vancouver audience yesterday.

Speaking at a symposium on environmental activism at the Maritime Labour Centre, the author of No Logo threw her support behind three native speakers who spent time behind bars.

"Jail was a humbling experience. We (Indigenous People) made up our minds that we'll go to the extremes to protect our land," said Samuel McKay, who was sentenced to six months for attempting to stop mining exploration in Northern Ontario.

Kanahus Manuel, arrested for environmental activism at Sun Peaks Resort in B.C., said she is worried the Olympics will attract even more investors to the province.

Klein added that development in native lands is a global problem and said she was embarrassed to see a Canadian company extracting oil from disputed native lands in Chile.

Dion's green shift

Liberal plan would tax carbon, but cut income tax

Liberal Leader Stéphane Dion has launched the first round of the next election campaign with an ambitious strategy to fight global warming with hefty increases in energy costs coupled with Robin Hood-style tax rebates aimed at easing poverty.

Dion yesterday pledged that the $15.4 billion in new taxes on fossil fuel energy would be more than offset by tax cuts to individuals and corporations, including initiatives specifically aimed at helping lower-income households, like a new $350 child tax credit.

CHRIS WATTIE/REUTERS

Liberal Leader Stéphane Dion acknowledges a standing ovation during an event announcing his party's carbon tax plan on Parliament Hill yesterday.

"We need to make the Canadian tax regime more progressive so that we help middle- and low-income Canadians be part of the solution to the climate change crisis," Dion said as he kicked off his "Green Shift" strategy.

"We Liberals also have a goal — to fight poverty. Our Green Shift will be especially targeted to decrease poverty with further emphasis on helping children in poverty," an upbeat Dion told an audience of Liberals MPs and party supporters.

Taliban are routed in largest battle in years

Afghan and mostly Canadian NATO-led forces killed or wounded hundreds of Taliban yesterday in an offensive to clear the militants from the outskirts of Kandahar city, the provincial governor said.

NATO confirmed in a statement issued in Kabul that Taliban fighters — including many believed to have escaped during a mass jail break last week — had been routed from positions among the orchards and farms of Arghandab district, northwest of Kandahar city.

Afghan soldiers and NATO's International Security Assistance Force attacked enemy positions, having used helicopter gunships at the start of one of the biggest battles in Afghanistan in recent years. REUTERS

Rape 'a military tactic'

UN looks at way to stop violence against women

» UN officials have said the problem is currently worst in eastern Congo. But a recent survey of 2,000 women and girls in Liberia showed 75 per cent had been raped during the West African country's civil war.

UN Security Council nations demanded yesterday that warring governments and factions act to halt violence against women, saying rape was no longer just a by-product of war but a military tactic.

U.S. Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice, who chaired part of the session, told the council the world had now recognized that sexual violence during conflicts went beyond individual victims to affect nations' security and stability.

Echoed by a string of speakers, UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon told the 15-nation council the problem had "reached unspeakable and pandemic proportions in some societies attempting to recover from conflict."

Maj. Gen. Patrick Cammaert, a former UN peacekeeping commander, told the meeting: "It has probably become more dangerous to be a woman than a soldier in an armed conflict."

Speakers identified former Yugoslavia, Sudan's Darfur region, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Rwanda and Liberia as conflict regions where deliberate sexual violence had occurred on a mass scale.

A U.S.-sponsored resolution set for a vote later in the day by the council called sexual violence "a tactic of war to humiliate, dominate, instill fear in, disperse and/or forcibly relocate civilian members of a community or ethnic group." REUTERS

Massive force set to defend Olympics

Special unit of 100,000 aims to deter terrorism

« ... officials and the public must understand the importance of security and social stability for the Olympics.»

Beijing organizer, Liu Qi

Beijing announced yesterday that a special force nearly 100,000 strong was already on alert for terrorists, reinforcing the impression security will dominate the last 50 days of preparations for the Olympics.

With the venues completed and the 42 Olympic test events wrapped up, Beijing organizer-in-chief Liu Qi put security firmly at the top of the agenda in a speech this week reported on the official Games website.

"As the Olympics are approaching, officials and the public must understand the importance of security and social stability for the Olympics," he said.

China has said terrorism is the biggest threat to the Games. It claims to have uncovered bomb plots and plans to kidnap athletes involving militants from the Uighur muslim minority in the far Western region of Xinjiang.

Rights activists accuse China of using terrorism as an excuse to crack down on internal dissent, in Xinjiang and Tibet in particular.

Last weekend, security forces, including the elite 300-strong Snow Wolf Commando Unit, completed a series of anti-terrorist drills called "Great Wall 5". REUTERS

Selling your life away

When Ian Usher's partner of 12 years left him broken-hearted, he decided the best way to move forward was to auction his whole life, in one job lot.

From Sunday, June 22 for one week, Usher's life is up for sale on EBay with the package including his $420,000 ($405,000) three-bedroom house in Perth, Western Australia, a trial for his job at a rug store, his car, motorbike, clothes and even friends.

Usher, 44, told Reuters he had been inundated with emails from all over the world since he put his life up for grabs in March, largely from people supporting him but also from those who were asking for advice on how to change their own lives.

"I was taken aback by how much interest there has been and by the amount of people it has inspired and had an impact on," said Usher who is hoping to raise up to $500,000 to fund a new life. REUTERS

7B to be spent on redevelopment

Petro-Canada aims to double its oil production in Libya after signing six long-term exploration and production deals with the North African country's state oil company, it said yesterday.

Canada's No. 4 oil producer and refiner said its joint venture with Libyan National Oil Corp could spend $7 billion on an oil field redevelopment program over the 30-year terms of the agreements.

The fields earmarked for redevelopment have estimated total resources of nearly two billion barrels, Petro-Canada said.

The joint venture's production is expected to double to 200,000 barrels a day over the next five to seven years, it said. REUTERS

Fired Nortel chief charged

Dunn, two top aides accused of criminal fraud

A former Nortel Networks chief executive and two of his lieutenants were charged yesterday with fraudulently misstating financial results as the telephone equipment maker struggled to right itself after the tech bubble burst in 2001.

Aside from ex-CEO Frank Dunn, who faces seven counts, former Chief Financial Officer Douglas Beatty, and Michael Gollogly, Nortel's former corporate controller, also face charges, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said.

The three were also accused of making false entries and omitting materials in Nortel's books.

The alleged fraud occurred after a meltdown in technology stocks that saw Nortel fall from its perch as an investor darling amid billions in losses and thousands of layoffs. REUTERS

Germans romp into semis

Powerful Portugal suffers heartbreak

EURO2008

Germany's Bastian Schweinsteiger scored the first goal and set up two more as his team beat Portugal 3-2 in their Euro 2008 quarter-final yesterday.

Two goals in four minutes midway through the first half from Schweinsteiger and Miroslav Klose put them on top and captain Michael Ballack gave them a 3-1 lead just past the hour.

Nuno Gomes had pulled one back for the battling Portuguese just before halftime and substitute Helder Postiga put late pressure on the Germans when he made it 3-2, but Germany held on.

In the semifinal in Basel yesterday, Germany will meet the winners of today's match between Croatia and Turkey.

"I'm so happy we won," said Schweinsteiger. "We're in the top four and we've got the best team in my eyes. We saw we can play football, we can fight and German virtues are still there."

Germany coach Joachim Loew could only applaud his team from the stands after being banned for one match following a dispute with the fourth official in their last group game.

Stamkos a lock to go first

The NHL will hold its annual Entry Draft this weekend at Scotiabank Place in Ottawa, and the Tampa Bay Lightning will get the first shot at this year's pool of talented youngsters.

Stamkos

The Lightning have the No. 1 overall selection for the third time in team history, and for the first time since taking centreman Vincent Lecavalier in 1998.

Unlike last year, there is little question as to who the first pick will be tonight in Ottawa.

The Lightning have all but stated that they will take 18-year-old Sarnia Sting centreman Steven Stamkos with the first overall selection, but it's anybody's guess as to how the rest of the draft will unfold.

Draft day generally sees a fair amount of trades and swapping of positions. The Vancouver Canucks have the 10th overall pick.

Gagner fits in nicely

TOUL BOX

SCOTT RINTOUL
scott.rintoul@metronews.ca

For the second time in a decade, the Vancouver Canucks have acquired Dave Gagner.

The former NHLer, whose best days came as a member of the Minnesota North Stars when he helped lead them to a Stanley Cup Final in 1991, was named Director of Player Personnel yesterday while Stan Smyl was reassigned to Director of Collegiate Scouting.

Called "the key to the deal" when Brian Burke sent Pavel Bure to Florida for a package that included Ed Jovanovski, Gagner leaves his role as an assistant coach with the OHL's London Knights to join the Canucks. Gagner is the father of the Oilers' Sam Gagner, and if he can find a few players like his son, this appointment will pay off in spades.

In hiring Gagner, Ryan Walter and Scott Mellanby, general manager Mike Gillis appears to have a clear mantra: Bring in respected people within the game regardless of whether they have direct experience in the positions they are being hired for.

» Kevin Constantine is the latest to weigh in on Kyle Beach, the talented, but allegedly temperamental, teenager who's the wild card at the top of today's NHL draft.

The former bench boss of the Sharks, Penguins and Devils coached Beach two years ago with the Everett Silvertips, and says the young power forward is certainly worth the risk he is perceived to present. Constantine says the Silvertips were warned of Beach's lack of discipline and maturity before they drafted him in the WHL, but adds that he never had any off-ice problems with the Kelowna product.

> « Buono has long said that his job as GM is to find players better than the ones he currently has, and he appears to be sticking with that mantra once again. »

Constantine admits that he would rather draft a player with considerable talent and questionable personality rather than vice versa as he believes the latter is much easier to manage. Beach has been projected as the 10th pick (which the Canucks happen to hold) in the draft, but recent speculation suggests that he will be drafted before the Canucks have the opportunity to snare him.

» If you don't believe Wally Buono's roster decisions are professional as opposed to personal, ask Gino Guidugli.

Buono seemed happy with Guidugli's progress through last season and it was reasonable to believe that would be the Lions' third-string quarterback this season. However, Zac Champion outperformed Guidugli in training camp, and Buono believes the freshman will end up being the better pivot in the long run. Buono has long said that his job as GM is to find players better than the ones he currently has, and he appears to be sticking with that mantra once again.

Zero X electric dirt bike rides like a mountain bike

Adrenaline surges through my body as I fly along the tight single track trails on Blue Mountain with my dirt bike. The bright sun above shines through the lush green forest as I follow the steep rocky and rooty terrain. There is one thing missing as I navigate the trails: The sound!

It was a year ago when I first tested the Zero X electric dirt bike. I now own one and it definitely is the future of dirt biking.

The bike is powered by an incredible Lithium Ion battery that is biodegradable and fully recyclable. It creates 23 horse power that moves the bike along at a top speed of 95 km/h and does 0 to 50 in a mere two seconds!

The bike only weighs 140 pounds (63 kilograms) and rides more like a downhill mountain bike than a full-on motocross bike. It is easy on the trails due to the low-end torque of the electric motor, which makes it easy to ride as well.

Dave Norona enjoys the amazing single track trails aboard his silent Zero X Electric Bike on Blue Mountain in Maple Ridge.

However, the best part is the smile that comes across your face as you are flying through the beautiful forest trails with absolutely no sound. An on-road version will be available by the fall that will have side bags, lights and will be the ideal city commuter with zero emissions.

If you want more information or to come try it out at a demo day then visit davenorona.com/moto to check it out.

The English language is an amazing thing, with around 750,000 words. But we haven't got around to finding names for everything just yet. For example, what do you call those chunks of snow gunk that build up in your car's wheel wells in the winter? Or that part of your golf swing where you realize that you're going to shank it a millisecond before the club strikes the ball?

About a year ago, I was working on a radio show that studied how various bands had come up with their names. However, this particular area of academia didn't have a name. While the study of words is called etymology and the investigation of name origins is known as onomatology, there was nothing that described the study of how, say, a group of Irish high school kids eventually became known as U2.

Looking to secure immortality by placing a word in the Oxford English Dictionary, I consulted Dr. Sheila Embleton, a professor of linguistics at York University in Toronto and a member of The American Name Society. Then I talked to Marc Hershon, who operates Simmer Branding in Sausalito, Calif., the guy who helped come up with the name "Swiffer" for Proctor & Gamble. With their help, we came up with a name that satisfied our needs.

Hereafter, the study of the origins of the names of musical groups shall be known as bandomynology.

Since then, I've run across certain other music-related things which need names:

» The impatience that comes with the obligatory screaming and clapping between a performer's main set and the encore. Why do they make fans do that?

» The annoyance you feel when a band that's been your special secret suddenly becomes popular.

» The kind of person that still frequents record stores and actually buys CDs.

» Speaking of whom, we need a name for the feeling you get when you discover a CD or piece of vinyl that you've spent years searching for. Hardcore music collectors know exactly what I mean.

» People who insist on wearing gigantic studio-sized headphones while listening to their MP3 players in public. (If you're reading this on public transit, look around. You'll see at least one.)

» The sudden realization that you've just irretrievably lost all your music through a hard drive crash.

Any thoughts? Email me so we can enrich the English language with our, er, onomastic wisdom.

Alan wonders whether we need a name for the feeling you get when you discover a CD or piece of vinyl that you've spent years searching for.

Heroes of rockabilly

ON THE BEAT

Reverend Horton Heat play the Commodore June 26.

For the Reverend Horton Heat, it's go live or go home.

The hard-touring rockabilly trio is cutting its schedule from a career high of 275 annual shows to around 120 — though singer-guitarist Jim Heath says it's a tough shift.

"People kid themselves and think they're playing music when they're really just putting some album out," he said. "I consider being a musician a valuable art form, and I don't consider being a recording artist as valid. It's a lesser art form."

Heath's studio sessions are a blur. For example, Space Heater was drawn from 30 songs written in 30 days, and the band treats ProTools like a dirty word. Asked if anything is lost without post-production, he said if something sounds good live, it shouldn't matter.

"I just go in (the studio) and play guitar, and no-one claps and I leave. It's a very sterile, unattractive thing," he said. "When Mozart...sat down to write a symphony...he didn't sit back and say 'that was great, let's do another'. It was a means to an end — and that end was putting on a show."

Through his show, Heath aims to restore the energy of Jerry Lee Lewis banging out straight eights on a piano that got lost in psychedelic rock, funk and folk. Punk rock shifted the terrain under the "flowery psychedelic folks and big DJs with their clean shirts," but didn't reverse rock's trajectory, and Heath felt lost until discovering rockabilly. And while he doesn't like much about rock after Little Richard combed out his pompadour, Heath has some love for the White Stripes and Strokes-powered garage revival.

"Basically, we abandoned rock and started doing this absolutely pop stuff, which led to more artsy stuff ... (Now) every song is built around a funk beat," he said. "[Though] there's a lot of good-sounding rock coming out now — those guys are doing a good job through their vintage sound.

Wolf Parade

Album: At Mount Zoomer
Label: Sub Pop/Outside
Release Date: June 17

THREE YEARS AGO it was impossible to have a conversation about Canada's music scene without mentioning Wolf Parade. Expect the same for 2008. Wolf Parade's sophomore effort is a brilliant collection of catchy indie pop, complete with buzzing synths, bright guitars and complex arrangements. Thankfully, it's more measured than the band's first release – the vocals are more in control, the keys are less frantic, it's not as Modest Mouse-like – making this the best record of year so far. BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI

Coldplay

Album: Viva La Vida or Death And All His Friends
Label: Parlophone/EMI
Release Date: June 17

ACCORDING TO THE hype, the very life of the EMI Music empire rests on the success or failure of this album. Never fear. Despite the best efforts of producers Brian Eno (U2, Peter Gabriel) and Markus Dravs (Arcade Fire), this is still very much a Coldplay album. Better than X&Y, but not quite up to A Rush Of Blood To The Head. Another 10 million records will be sold, EMI will survive and Chris Martin will continue to be able to support children with funny names. GRAHAM ROCKINGHAM

Lil Wayne

Album: Tha Carter III
Label: Cash Money/ Universal Motown
Release Date: June 10

THE "BEST RAPPER alive" proclamation on Let The Beat Build might be pushing it. "Most eccentric rapper alive" sounds more apropos, given that the third chapter in Wayne's Tha Carter trilogy is all over the map. Phone Home's alien persona and his wild physician m.o. on Dr. Carter stoop to cartoonish levels. His post-Hurricane Katrina ode Tie My Hands (featuring Robin Thicke) and, littered with Nina Simone-sampled bits of Don't Let Me Be Misunderstood, the oft-outspoken diatribe Don't Get It show off a powerful contemplative side. Mike Myers as Pitka in The Love Guru, opening this weekend.

REVIEW HAND IT to Mike Myers. At least the guy can create an interesting character. In The Love Guru, Myers stars as Pitka, a self-help swami who hopes a high-profile case will land him a coveted spot on Oprah so he can overtake his life-long competitor Deepak Chopra as the number one guru in the world. That opportunity comes when he's enlisted by the Toronto Maple Leafs to help reconcile their star player with his ex-lover in order to end a goal-slump curse on the way to winning the Stanley Cup (and that is actually NOT intended as one of the jokes). Okay, nobody said Myers' movies were grounded in reality. Austin Powers certainly only had a modicum of believability, and like Powers, at least The Love Guru showcases Mike's ability to charm us with his quirky characters, even if they are all beginning to seem slightly too familiar.Mind you, there are some funny moments in The Love Guru. However, the most notable ones come courtesy of Stephen Colbert who makes a surprising appearance as a drugged-out sports commentator. As for Myers, he shines more when he's performing a sitar version of Extreme's 1990 ballad "More Than Words" than he ever does ceaselessly dropping bad penis puns or making cracks about soiling himself. See, the genius of the Austin Powers movies was their clever ability to recycle gags; they worked because they were still within the context of Austin Powers. Transporting a lot of familiar jokes over to Guru just seems ... well, lazy. Toss in the fact that Myers even cast his diminutive Austin Powers co-star Vern Troyer so he could exploit a handful of midget jokes and it gets a bit much. On the other hand, I suppose it's nice to see Myers keeping Mini-Me employed.

The untold story of Genghis Khan

Mongol

Stars Tadonobu Asano, Honglei Sun
Director Sergei Bodrov

By STEVE GOW
for Metro Vancouver

REVIEW THERE WERE quite a few movies overlooked for a Best Foreign Film nomination at this year's Oscars: Persepolis and The Band's Visit just to name a pair. So it was with relatively high expectations I sat down to Mongol, one of those acclaimed films' successors. Brought to life by Russian filmmaker Sergei Bodrov (Nomad), Mongol boasts the "untold story of Genghis Khan."

Spanning over 30 years, Mongol is a huge movie that most remarkably features stunning cinematography and the kind of epic battles reserved for Tinseltown's biggest blockbusters. Bodrov even shot Mongol using old-school methods; creating sets in remote areas of Asia, relying on some 600 crewmembers and thousands of extras.

However, with today's moviegoers desensitized by overblown computer-generated effects, Mongol's accomplishments may be somewhat overlooked.

If you search beyond the big stuff however, you'll find a gripping love story bubbling beneath the bloodiness and that is perhaps the real reason Mongol earned its Oscar nomination.

The mettle of Heavy Metal

Global Metal

Director Sam Dunn

PG

By RICK McGINNIS
for Metro Vancouver

REVIEW AFTER GIVING us a potted history of metal in Metal: A Headbanger's Journey, Sam Dunn and Scot McFadyen decided to respond to the fan mail they received from all over the world to explore how heavy metal has penetrated the vast world outside of the suburbs and apartment blocks of America and Europe.

The trip takes them from Brazil to Asia and the Middle East, while whole parts of the world — Africa and Russia in particular — go unexplored, in anticipation of perhaps another film essay by the pair.

With Dunn as on-camera host and McFadyen his silent partner, they discover how metal's themes of violent alienation and controlled rage resonate a bit more profoundly in countries where poverty and oppression are everyday realities, or where escape into a fervent — and inevitably masculine — fantasy world are welcome respites from societies organized around duty and conformity. Metal feels a lot less like a faintly adolescent hobby in places Iran, where metalheads are seen as cultural fifth columnists by the mullahs that rule the country.

Metalheads revisited

By RICK McGINNIS
for Metro Vancouver

FEATURE THERE'S A VERY TENSE moment in Sam Dunn and Scot McFadyen's Global Metal, their travelogue through heavy metal subculture around the world, where the lead singer of Tengkorak, Indonesia's biggest metal band, insists it's the mission of all Muslims – indeed of right-thinking people everywhere – to kill "Zionists," a sentiment that he voices while wearing a prominent anti-Nazi armband.

Suddenly, the confused, inchoate world of early st-century politics has entered Dunn and McFadyen's world with a vengeance.

"It's kind of an unfortunate product of 9/11," Dunn reflects, "with the hardening of views, and some young people feel they have to take a very strong stance based on who they are in some countries. I think Tengkorak's politics are an example of that – being defensive, feeling attacked as a Muslim and having to direct your anger at something else."

Global Metal is a sequel of sorts to the pair's earlier film, Metal: A Headbanger's Journey, which followed Dunn, a trained anthropologist and lifelong metalhead around the world as he explored the roots of his favourite music.

Global Metal is a response to all the letters he and McFadyen received in the aftermath of the first film's release. Politics didn't play much of a role in the first film, but it certainly does in the new one, with its stops in Brazil, China, Indonesia, Israel and United Arab Emirates.

"It's pre-political is the only way I can describe it, after the first film," says McFadyen. It's political, but it doesn't give you an answer — it's a feeling. It's emotionally political, not intellectually political.

But in those countries we found that Indonesia is taking more of an intellectual political approach, and in China it seems like a combination."

Their filmmaking partnership has moved on to documentaries on Iron Maiden and Rush that will take them into the next year, after which they're still only speculating about another film in the series.

"I guess things do work in threes," McFadyen says. "I really don't know what would be the third installment of the metal trilogy..."

"We've talked about the possibility of expanding Global Metal into a series," adds Dunn, "because when we started the research for the movie we had a list of about 30 countries where we knew there was metal, but eventually pared it down to the ones we thought were most interesting.

So there's a list of countries that you could easily do a half-hour piece on - Colombia or Russia or Cuba. Morocco. There's a lot of — places."

"You would have someone like Alice Cooper say it has nothing to do with politics, and then you'd have Tom Morello from Rage Against the Machine say School's Out was the most political song he heard when he was a kid.

DON'T MESS WITH THE ZOHAN

★★★1/2 (out of 5)

Adam Sandler plays the title role in the film, a sort of Israeli James Bond with a secret dream of styling hair in New York City, who fakes his death and goes off to live his blow-dried, '80s-inspired dream. Sandler plays Zohan with an Israeli accent so painstakingly bad that it becomes its own joke, as does the film's barrage of Hebrew and Arab slang, most of it invented.

THE HAPPENING

The very great problem with M. Night Shyamalan's films is that once he departs from the nameless dread so painstakingly created in their setup, they've lost most of their reason to exist. The film is a bit of a departure for the director, since he reveals the big premise early on, and not near the end, sparing the audience the eye-rolling revelations that made Signs and The Village so retroactively disappointing. Unfortunately, that means you can start rolling your eyes and giggling earlier, with the first film that makes itself the punch line to global warming's joke.

Robert Downey Jr. as Iron Man, a.k.a. arms dealer turned good guy Tony Stark, proves he's one of today's best character actors. Wall-E a five year labour of love

By RICK McGINNIS
for Metro Vancouver

FEATURE IT'S BEEN five years since Andrew Stanton's Finding Nemo, his last movie, hit the theatres. In the same amount of time a director working in live action could have made five more films, but Stanton, one of Pixar's stable of name directors, has spent almost the whole time working on Wall-E, the studio's latest picture, a wildly labour-intensive period typical of how animated features are made, whether back in the golden age of Disney with cel animation, or today, with Pixar's state-of-the-art digital technology.

"I often say that directing animation is just like directing live action but in slow motion," Stanton tells Metro, looking back on the last five years. "You're dealing with human beings that are good at their craft; they all have the same jobs as on a live-action set, they just use a different tool to use that job, whether it's costumes, lighting effect, camerawork. And you don't have the luxury of getting together all at the same moment, saying 'action' and seeing it all come together."

"When you do live action, you do just as much planning, as much talk, just as many people, but then that moment happens on the same day — you shoot it, you're done. Spontaneity is king, and you go with it whether it's sunny or it's raining or whether you planned on clouds, and there's something very invigorating about spontaneity. There is not an ounce of spontaneity in making an animated picture, because it just takes so long. So the winning side of animation is that you have a god-like control of everything. You can basically tweak till the last second. You can go back to things you did two years ago and change it again, or tweak it a little more. You can be quite the perfectionist, and it would be great if you could do both."

RICK McGINNIS/FOR METRO VANCOUVER

Andrew Stanton, director Wall-E, says he looked at all kinds of robots, including a bomb-sniffing one, as research.

Pixar is famous for its research trips, where the heads of each department go out and collect the textures and movements and feel of the world where the film is set. For Cars, they went out and toured old Route 66; for Ratatouille, it was a trip to Paris to sample the city's best restaurants. Wall-E is set on a future Earth covered with garbage, and in space, and neither place suggested any glamorous research trip, so Stanton admits he delayed his research in favour of spending a few months — his vacation time after Nemo — storyboarding the film at Pixar. Only after he'd gotten the green light did he go out and explore the look of the film.

"We went to dumps, we went to recycling centres," Stanton recalls.

"We looked at any kind of robot we could look at, even if it was the bomb-sniffing robot from the nearby police department. We did go to (NASA's) Jet Propulsion Laboratories and look at some of their rover designs. And we went on the Disney cruise line to see how the ships are run. It was a lot of hodge-podge stuff — there wasn't anything really that sexy about it. Cause so much of it was fantasy — you just have to make stuff up."

» Wall-E is in theatres next Friday.

Actor Carell gets Smart

Would you believe ... actor didn't study Don Adams' role?

By GLEN MILLER
for Metro Vancouver

FEATURE SO HOW DO you go about making a movie derived from an iconic Emmy-Award-winning series and not fall flat on your face like a Maxwell Smart tumble on the floor?

For the generation that grew up on the 1965-70 comedy series Get Smart, it's hallowed ground, but co-screenwriter Tom Astle and company felt totally comfortable indulging in an opportunity to score some points with the old generation of Get Smart fans — and make a film that stands on its own merit as a comedic action film that has romance, too.

"The reason the movie works in this time period is that the original series was done at a time during the Cold War, so there was paranoia in the air. I don't know if anybody has noticed, but there is a little paranoia in society in general now," Astle told Metro. "I think that's what makes it an appropriate time to do this movie now."

While the movie's braintrust knew they were obliged to pay homage to the original series, there was a conscious decision not to simply produce a direct steal from the series.

Steve Carell (The Office) had no intention of trying to emulate the legendary Don Adams who starred as Maxwell Smart, Agent 86. So, to prepare, there was no revisiting the old shows.

"I steered away from it because I didn't want to do an impression of Don Adams," Carell said at a press conference in L.A. "I figured there was no way to improve upon what he had done. And I thought the more I watched him, the more I would be inclined to do an impersonation because he was so good and so definitive in the role."

Get Smart, which opens in theatres today, has an abundance of stars to make it sellable: Carell, Anne Hathaway (Agent 99), Alan Arkin (the Chief), Terence Stamp (Siegfried), Dwayne Johnson (Agent 23), not to mention some other famous face cameos. In the film, Agent 86 and 99 must somehow thwart the plans of world domination by KAOS.

One major difference between the series and movie is that Smart is a newbie who serendipitously achieves his career goal to be an agent. And loving it.

The Man Who Made the Whole Town Lose Weight

In the small town of Alesund in Norway, many of its residents began eating a common plant that made over 1,500 of them lose weight! It all began in 2006 when a customer of Johnny Pettersen, a local health food store owner, asked him for advice on how to eliminate sugar cravings.

"I gave my customer mulberry leaf tablets because mulberry is known to lower your blood sugar after meals. When blood sugar is stable, sugar cravings disappear. And it worked very well. I started recommending mulberry to many customers and soon noticed that they were losing weight. This made me curious, so I studied the effect of mulberries on blood sugar, insulin and fat burning. Surely enough, because of the effect on blood sugar, mulberry leaves also lead to lower insulin secretion, which makes you able to burn stored fat better and also reduces fat storage from excess calories."

The 10-day diet

When Pettersen increased the dosage, recommending two mulberry tablets before each meal, he found that his customers not only controlled their sugar cravings, but also lost significant amounts of weight.

"I recommended that customers follow the programme for a minimum of 10 days in order to eliminate their need for sugar stimulation. Sugar works as a drug on the brain and people need to eliminate the need for a 'sugar high' if they want to stay slim. Taking mulberry leaves, my customers changed to a healthier diet without even noticing it — they simply didn't crave sugar."

1500 people lost weight

After the success of the first customers, word travelled fast. In the last 12 months Pettersen has worked with over 1,500 customers in Alesund and the surrounding area. He feels that his simple and natural mulberry formula has been a tremendous success.

He concludes, "Once my customers try mulberry leaves, they come back, often with friends and family, and buy several packages. It is rewarding because I see them coming back happy, healthy and slimmer."

MULBERRY - A BREAKTHROUGH!

For centuries, the Japanese culture, which is known for having a long life and a slim, healthy physique, has enjoyed the benefits of mulberry leaves. We now know from clinical studies how mulberry leaves regulate blood sugar levels. For dieters, this means a lower production of insulin after eating carbohydrates. Insulin is responsible for storing excess calories as fat and for shutting down fat burning. Too much insulin is a dieter's worst enemy!

Mike Myers' latest comedy The Love Guru puts a decidedly Toronto spin on new-age self-help.

Bringing the subject home

Mike Myers always wanted film about Leafs

By BRIAN TOWIE
for Metro Vancouver

FEATURE YOU CAN take the man out of Toronto, but you can't take Toronto out of the man. It was a decidedly Canadian (more specifically Toronto-centric) flavour that actor Mike Myers gave to his latest comedy opus, the Love Guru.

The Saturday Night Live alumnus has always inserted shout-outs to Canada's largest city in previous work such as Wayne's World or his Austin Powers series, but this time his hometown was part of the story.

Filmed in part at the Air Canada Centre and Casa Loma, The Love Guru centres around Guru Pitka (Myers) a new-age self-help expert who has to rejuvenate the confidence of a Toronto Maple Leafs sniper (Romany Malco from the 40-Year-Old Virgin) in the midst of a bid for the Stanley Cup after his wife leaves him for his rival, well-endowed goaltender Jacques "Le Coq" Grande (Justin Timberlake).

For a work so steeped in Canadian culture, Myers isn't worried that international audiences won't be in on the joke.

"Thinking about what people get or don't get, no. It's about what you think is funny, and that's really what I do," says Myers, 45.

"A movie is supposed to take you somewhere you've never been before, and say to you, 'Come on in, the water's warm.'"

> « I wasn't going to wait for it to happen, I was going to use this wonderful blessing that I have of being able to make stuff. For those who stay the course and believe, it will be a wonderful day. »
> Actor Mike Myers

Directed by Marco Schnabel (Myers has a history of working with first-timers), the movie is vintage Myers with its carefully crafted pelvic humour, grandiose dance numbers, and merciless teasing of Verne Troyer (who stars as the Leafs' irascible coach) set against a Bollywood backdrop.

But he fashioned the story around one of his greatest fantasies, and the major reason for the movie: a Stanley Cup victory for the Leafs and an end to the 41-years-and-counting cup drought. He notes that at its heart, the film is his ode to Leaf Nation, wherever they may live.

"I, like the rest of Toronto, have been waiting patiently," says Myers, who was only 4 when the Leafs last hoisted the trophy in 1967.

"I figured, 'If you write it, they will come.' I wasn't going to wait for it to happen, I was going to use this wonderful blessing that I have of being able to make stuff.

"For those who stay the course and believe, it will be a wonderful day."

The Love Guru opens in theatres today.

Martha Wainwright steps out from behind her family's shadow and soars!

By Mary Dickie
Contributing Writer

It's not that Martha Wainwright's 2005 debut wasn't everything it should have been: a collection of sharp-tongued, beautiful songs about her turbulent emotional history and relationships with dad Loudon Wainwright III, brother Rufus and mom Kate McGarrigle. It's just that the 32-year-old singer's follow-up is so good that it transcends genres and the famous family thing. On I Know You're Married but I've Got Feelings Too (MapleMusic Recordings/UMG), a brazenly confident Wainwright shows off her songwriting along with her larger-than-life voice, exploring desire, pain, fear and loss in 12 dazzling songs. "I came to this one as an artist rather than someone trying to emerge from the shadow of her family," she explains. "The first album was loaded in that way because that was my story. But on this one, I was able to shed those insecurities." Last year, Wainwright brought down the house with her sultry performance of Stormy Weather at her brother's recreation of Judy Garland's 1961 Carnegie Hall concert. "I see myself as much a singer as a songwriter," she says. "It's fun to get out from behind the guitar and sing a song as perfectly constructed as those standards are and have it be about the performance."

Fashion-Conscious

The world is not a simple place, as Sandy Black explores in Eco-Chic: The Fashion Paradox (Black Dog Books). Our desire for cheap clothes has built a booming global textile market that employs (and often exploits) nearly 30 million people. What Black makes us consider are the trade-offs: Are renewable materials, made from by-products of the oil industry, a better ethical buy than natural fabrics? She shows us how informed consumers who read labels and make ethical demands can push manufacturers into making clothes that are green and fashionable.

Eco-Chic: The Fashion Paradox (Black Dog Books)

IN THE RAW

The skinny on the four most popular eco-friendly fabrics.

● Organic cotton Unlike regular cotton, which uses chemical defoliants and bleaching dyes, organic cotton is grown without pesticides or chemicals and its dyes are made from vegetable matter. ● Bamboo The latest eco-darling, bamboo creates velvety soft fabrics and is a hardy renewable resource. ● Hemp Banish all thoughts of hemp necklaces! Hemp can be used to create almost anything from purses to dresses. ● Soy Soy filters nitrogen from the air, which reduces greenhouse gas emissions and gives clothes a silky feel. Unlike synthetic materials, all organic fabrics can be easily composted and recycled.

Christina Strutt, author of A Guide to Green Housekeeping, shares her tips for eco-friendly washing.

● Use cold water. Your clothes will get just as clean at 5 C to 10 C. ● Avoid products with nonyl phenoxy ethoxylate (NPE), which has been linked to breast cancer and infertility. ● Use powder, not liquid, detergent — it requires fewer manufacturing processes. ● Add one tablespoon of baking soda and one teaspoon of vinegar to each load — you'll use less detergent and double your cleaning power. ● Choose a high-efficiency washer that uses less water and energy; you'll save on your hydro bill too!

LUSH Cosmetics helps rain forest, naturally

DO YOU CARE about orangutans?

LUSH Cosmetics, which provides handmade, natural products made from fruits and vegetables, is protecting Sumatra's rain forest, and the orangutan's habitat, by producing soaps without palm oil.

Soon, you'll be able to learn all about how the company sources its ingredients when you click on an item for sale on its website lush.ca.

Mark Wolverton, Vancouver-based president and CEO of LUSH North America, says he and his team of buyers travel the world armed with cameras to investigate and document the way ingredients are made. No products using child labour. No products produced in a conflict zone.

"We're unique. The niche we have is the front edge of handmade, natural, environmental, quality, treat-yourself-stuff."

Although organic, natural or environmentally friendly cosmetics are less than five per cent of the Canadian market, it is an area that is fast-growing and shows much promise for future growth.

Wolverton, whose company has been in Canada for a decade, says his market of ethically minded 20- to 45-year-olds do the research.

"In this day of information, people are far more educated about making choices."

LUSH sell its creams and lip balms in recyclable containers with little or no packaging and uses its profits (it is a private company so no numbers divulged) to lobby for change in the environmental field. Sumatra's rain forest are one such project.

LUSH Cosmetics is helping protect Sumatra's rain forest by producing soaps without palm oil.

It's expensive. It's in Yaletown. And it's French. Already I can hear the groans begin and the mental recoil at all the pretension implied in those three simple phrases. But then, pretension is not what Jean-Francis and Alessandra Quaglia, a couple who are passionate about all things Provençal, are about. The approach is more down-home diner than deluxe, although the setting is undoubtedly ritz. And when I (along with a bunch of other foodies) got together to sample the newly updated seafood sampler menu, we got a first-class refresher in why southern France is still the go-to region for all the cool big fish. A chilled seafood platter ($60) of fresh prawns, oysters, mussels, scallops, crab, smoked salmon and other pelagic fruits was garnished with lemon-herb and saffron-garlic mayos, fresh lemon and coarse sea salt. Seared ahi tuna ($32) with Moroccan couscous and snap peas was simply prepared and bustin' flavoids, thanks to the tomato, fennel and orange vinaigrette. Grilled halibut ($30) in lemon and Basque pepper sauce was smooth and spicy, while a crab and lobster risotto ($29) was a rich, tomato-flecked bomb. The coupe de grace came with the whole Dungeness crab ($-don't ask!) done Provençal-style. Dessert might seem overkill, but Jean-Francis has been making his lemon tarte ($8) since the tender age of 8 and all that practice has paid off. Light, tart and tasty, not unlike the meal.

Sleeman hits 20 with No. 20 Ale

It's been 20 years since John Sleeman re-opened his grandfather's brewery (closed during Prohibition). Today, Sleeman is the third-largest brewer in Canada. In honour of the last two decades, Sleeman No. 20 Anniversary Ale was created. The brew is straight out of his grandfather's recipe book, made with authentic English Ale yeast and a selection of imported hops. At only 4.8 per cent, it's friendly enough for family barbecues. BCLS $11.95 for 6 x 341 mL.

Mars remake a saddening bore?

MARS ATTACKS: Bashing ABC's version of Life On Mars, the hit BBC time-travel police drama, is getting to be like self-abuse for me — I know it's probably wrong, and definitely far from productive, but it's a nice stress release, and I probably can't stop myself now, can I?

And right on cue comes a story on the U.K. Guardian's film and TV blog judging the show by its apparently-scrapped pilot — the one they made before original producer and showrunner David E. Kelley dropped out and the setting was changed from Los Angeles to New York in the '70s. James Donaghy, the paper's TV writer, calls it "pretty damn bad," with particular disapproval reserved for Jason O'Mara, the Irish actor who took the role of Sam Tyler, played by John Simm in the BBC original.

INTELLEVISION
RICK McGINNIS
rick.mcginnis@metronews.ca

Donaghy calls O'Mara "an identikit beefcake of no notable ability," whose initial response to discovering that a car accident has rewound him back to 1972 is "as cliched as his blandly rugged mug. He shouts, he barges, his eyes pop. It's all quite tiresome."

He doesn't have much in the way of praise for Rachel Lefevre, who plays the love interest role of Annie Cartwright — a fellow police detective in the U.S. reworking, a lowly Women's Police Constable played memorably by Liz White in the original. She's a "swimwear model with a police badge who appears to have wandered into the building by mistake," and she and O'Mara share a "flatlining sexual chemistry." So far, so not good.

The only apparently good choice made by the show's original producers was casting Colm Meaney as Gene Hunt, a role made memorable by Philip Glenister in the BBC original. Any actor would relish the bombastic leeway Glenister carved out for Gene Hunt, and Meaney is certainly up for the challenge.

At this point, if this thing makes it to air I'll perform all of ABBA's Arrival album in a jumpsuit and blond wig.

Jennifer vs. Jennifer?

Feuding beauties: Jennifer Aniston allegedly threatened to pull out of a magazine photo shoot if co-star Jennifer Connelly joined her on the front cover, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The actress had agreed to appear in a new issue of Marie Claire magazine to promote the movie He's Just Not That Into You but reportedly didn't want Connelly featured in the main photographs. However, Aniston was happy to pose alongside other female co-stars Drew Barrymore and Ginnifer Goodwin.

"She threatened to pull out if Jennifer was part of the cover. It was all about getting Jennifer Aniston front and centre and looking as sexy as possible," a source told Life And Style Weekly magazine.

Insiders on the movie set claim the two Jennifers didn't hit it off while working together. "There was no camaraderie between those two whatsoever. They didn't seem like friends in the slightest," a source said.

Aniston's representative has denied the story, insisting the two actresses became friends on the movie and the magazine requested she pose alone. METRO NEWS SERVICES

ROMANCE Ashley Olsen and National Treasure actor Justin Bartha have gone public with their budding romance after attending a film screening in New York together earlier this week, femalefirst.co.uk reports. "They huddled close together most of the night," a source tells the New York Post's gossip column Page Six. METRO NEWS SERVICES

Farrell sporting wedding ring

MARRIED? Colin Farrell has sparked speculation he is married after he was spotted wearing a wedding ring, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The actor was seen sporting a band on the ring finger of his left hand at Los Angeles' LAX airport, leading to claims he has tied the knot with girlfriend Muireann McDonnell, reports say.

"He didn't seem to be hiding the ring. Maybe he has finally found the girl he wants to settle down with," an onlooker said. Farrell met the student last year. METRO NEWS SERVICES

DIVORCE Charlie Sheen is apologizing for a three-year-old voice mail that ex Denise Richards made public, usmagazine.com reports. The voicemail included a curse-filled rant to Richards. The actor said in a recently released statement, "I deeply apologize by my choice of words to all I have obviously offended..." METRO NEWS SERVICES

Nixon slams surgery rumours

DENIAL Sex And The City star Cynthia Nixon has laughed off reports she has gone under the knife in a bid to maintain her youthful looks, imdb.com reports.

According to the New York Post's gossip column Page Six, both Nixon and her co-star Kristin Davis checked into Roosevelt Hospital in the Big Apple separately earlier this month for minor surgical procedures.

"Cynthia had a breast augmentation and soon after, Kristin had the varicose veins on her legs removed," a source told the publication. But Nixon's spokesperson has denied the rumours. METRO NEWS SERVICES

BLENZ COFFEE

HOROSCOPE

ARIES | March 21-April 20
Master yourself before making waves at work. You'll be more likable to others. Don't let someone's greed get in your way.

TAURUS | April 21-May 21
You'll let idiocy loose by abandoning someone. Tough times come from inconsiderate behaviour. A whiny friend needs a therapist.

GEMINI | May 22-June 21
An infatuation puts a sparkle in your eyes. A newbie should look for a hidden agenda. Create an unusual change for the better

CANCER | June 22-July 22
Protect yourself with a healthy diet plan. Your goodwill could result in success. Someone who is still starry-eyed goes away.

LEO | July 23-Aug. 23
Be helpful to an old-fashioned woman. Contemptuous words will cause a shock. Someone isn't being clear about something.

VIRGO | Aug. 24-Sept. 22
Don't seem to be more aloof than you really are. A revelation will give you peace of mind. Avoid stubborn people who need time to think.

LIBRA | Sep. 23-Oct. 23
A faithful lover is coming your way. Help a friend over a rough patch. A debt will be repaid sooner than expected.

SCORPIO | Oct. 24- Nov. 22
Have a meaningful chat with a wise person. Make new friendships with amazing people. You're ready to undertake a new task.

SAGITTARIUS | Nov. 23- Dec. 21
Your timing is highly rated. A sudden attraction will spark strong feelings. Patch up any misunderstandings

CAPRICORN | Dec. 22-Jan. 20
There'll be some enthusiasm for your idea. Don't be too indulgent when being flattered. A tired man will retire from a struggle.

AQUARIUS | Jan. 21-Feb. 18
A meeting will allow you some emotional freedom. You'll be in a funny predicament. Home is where your heart is tonight.

PISCES | Feb. 19-Mar. 20
Speak evil of anybody and somebody will notice. Use your influence to make good changes. You'll have to give advice.

instructions

The digits 1 through 9 will appear exactly once in each row, each column, and each zone. (A zone is an outlined 3x3 grid within the larger puzzle grid. There are nine of these zones in the puzzle.) Do not enter a digit into a box if it already appears elsewhere in the same 3x3 zone, or in the same row across the puzzle, or column down the puzzle.
